FOREWORD

of mouth for a long period of time and also put into written form by imaginative poets, have, for nearly 2700 years, influenced and embellished the art, the literature, and even the daily speech of the civilized world.

With their curious blend of fantasy and fact, of ideals and realities, these tales reflect the dreams and desires of man throughout history to know the realm of the unseen, the unknown, the mysterious. Hence, these myths, which were thought of as an important part of early civilized life, will live on for centuries to come.

As we, the Seniors, look back upon our memorable days at Benjamin Franklin High School, we, like the ancient Greeks before us, have also acquired some timeless tales of a most important part of our own lives, tales which will live on as an imperishable memory in the hearts and minds of all the members of the Class of 1960.

Pinder,
 I wish
 a happy successful career. Hope you are in one of my classes again
 next year because between the two of us we really lived it up.

Cindy,

It has great knowing you this year. We had a lot of fun together and I really enjoyed it. I am very glad that we did not get caught looking together. I also enjoyed being in two of your classes. You are a real great kid with a great personality. Be good and stay the way you are.

I pray to God that when I come back in Sept I will have some good news that I am going to study with you know who. Wish me luck on that.

P.S. It's been really great. Love ya Always,

Cindy

Well kiddo we really had a panic this year. We always seemed to do the wrong thing at the wrong time but it was fun. You're a real sweet gal with a wonderful personality.

A stately and beautiful goddess, Athena, the daughter of Zeus, was the living embodiment of gracious wisdom and learning. The cultivation of the arts and letters was her particular preserve, but also through the presence of this dignified maiden, agriculture, handicrafts, and athletics were made to flourish. To pay homage to her, the ancient Greeks built the magnificent Parthenon, a temple of everlasting glory.

Like this august lady of old, our faculty has patiently inculcated in us "the arts of peace" and the virtues of knowledge and rational conduct. As guardians of our own "Parthenon," they, like Athena before them, have bequeathed to us a purity of thought and an olive branch of serenity which we shall never forget.

With love & admiration

The son of Zeus and Maia, Hermes was worshipped by the ancient Greeks as the god of heralds and travelers and, more particularly, as Zeus's messenger, one "who flies as fleet as thought to do his bidding." A handsome young man, wearing winged sandals and a winged cap, and carrying his magic wand—the Caduceus—Hermes was graceful and swift of motion.

Likewise, our seniors with Mercurial strength, speed, and splendor have "winged" their adventurous way through five years of profitable study to the end of their memorable flight, a flight marked by hail-storms and dark valleys yet also by the same sunlight and "heaven-kissed hills" of mythological time.

EPITAPH OF THE GODS

So saying MINERVA, goddess azure-eyed,
Rose to Olympus, the reputed seat
Eternal of the gods . . .
There the inhabitants divine rejoice
For ever.

Homer

O' sovereign MERCURY of the willing soul,
Parent of sweet and solemn-breathing airs,
Enchanting shell! The sullen cares
And frantic passions hear thy soft control.

Gray

These nine MUSES teach us how to each degree and kind
We should ourselves demand, to low, to high,
To friends, to foes; which skill men call Civility.

Spenser

From morn to noon VULCAN fell, from noon to dewy eve,
A summer's day; and with the setting sun
Dropped from the zenith, like a falling star,
On Lemnos, the Aegean isle.

John Milton

EPITAPH OF THE SENIORS

(Last Will and Testament)

Friends, freaks, Franklinites, lend us your eyes; teachers so are they all, all honorable teachers. O, students, if we were disposed to stir your hearts and minds to mutiny and rage we should do these teachers wrong. We will not do them wrong; we rather choose to leave them our humble possessions. "The evil that people do lives after them; the good is oft interred with their bones;" so let it be with Seniors. Here is a parchment with the seal of Seniors; let but the common hear this testament—we do therefore bequeath it as a rich legacy.

To Mr. Sabin we leave our appreciation for his guidance and understanding.

To Miss Sullivan we leave 1,960 gold stars to be pasted on the Honor Roll.

To Mr. Lowell we leave the bullet that killed Mortimer T. Miller, Jr., a deserter from the 108th N. Y. State Volunteers Regiment in the Civil War.

To Mrs. Smith we leave our deepest gratitude and ten boxes of different colored chalk for her homeroom honor roll.

To Mr. Migliore we leave our heartfelt thanks and a box of low calorie chocolates.

To Mr. Smith we leave an eighth grade class which will never want to change from one lunch to another.

To Mr. Hyman Kaplan we leave the block letter Y so that 139 H may become 139 HY.

To Mr. Proud we leave an ample supply of "buddy burners" to heat the auditorium for next year's Key pictures.

To Mr. McHugh we leave a book entitled "1,000 Ready-Made Yearbook Themes Guaranteed to Please Everybody."

To Mr. Griffith we leave a stage so that he can play Uriah Heep for his daughter in style.

To Mr. Stalker we leave a pair of glasses so he will stop addressing tall attendance aides as "little girls."

To Mr. Vaiana we leave a new name—Mr. Veiene—thus creating a surplus of A's for Physics report card marks.

To Dr. Meder we leave an invitation to the wedding of the beautiful Carlotta and John C. Calhoun.

To Mr. Iman, upon his return, we leave Dr. Meder's unused hula-hoop.

To Mrs. Martin we leave a pamphlet entitled "100 Places to Lose Tests on Fascism."

To Mrs. Morsheimer we leave a giant magic slate to eliminate her troubles with chalk dust.

To Mr. Masters we leave cha-cha lessons so that he can participate in next year's variety show.

To Mr. Rahtjen we leave a large technicolor tie portraying the burning of Rome.

To Mrs. Bastian we leave Miss Bayer's record of "Quiet, quiet, all passes collected, all absent slips signed," plus the new recording of "keep your feet off the furniture."

To Miss Rowley we leave ten cords of Ethan Frome to burn in her big stone fireplace.

To Mr. Perham we leave a ticket to the opening day ball game and a pass to be excused.

To Mr. DeFran we leave a pair of bermuda shorts with cupids on them.

To Mr. Hawke we leave an "invisible shield" so that he will never fall backwards over the desk next to the blackboard while he is meditating.

To Miss Martens we leave our sincere thanks for her understanding.

To next year's freshmen we leave our manual on how to maintain two lockers at once without being caught.

To next year's sophomores we leave only slightly used dissected frogs.

To next year's juniors we leave ten bottles of "Air Wick" to prepare the gym for the Junior Prom.

To next year's Seniors we leave our spirit.

This testament has been signed and witnessed on the tenth day of the second month in year of our Lord one thousand nine hundred and sixty. Abbey. Fine. and Grossman humbly sign and fervently hope that the memory of the Class of 1960 will not die, only fade away.

Born on Mount Olympus, the nine Muses, who were the daughters of Zeus and the goddess of Memory, represented, in Greek mythology, the activities and arts of the ages. These patrons of joyous activity, as Hesiod said, were all of one mind for their hearts were set upon song and their spirit was free from care. By riding their winged horse of glory and by singing and dancing, these Queens of mirth and music gave "life its bloom." Thus, men who had sorrow and grief in their souls at once lost their dark thoughts and fled from their infirmities.

Our MUSEum at Franklin, offering, like the ancient Greek choral dancers, a glittering yet soothing array of various activities, has generously and continuously relieved our scholastic stresses and strains and provided much needed entertainment for us.

The Deity of Fire, Hephaestus was the patron not only of workmen but also of builders and artisans and traders in general, all of whom looked to him for guidance and inspiration. He built the palaces upon Mount Olympus, made the weapons used by the other gods, and served the divinities in all ways requiring such practical skill as he possessed.

Our advertisers, like this kindly protector of the smiths and builders of ancient myth, are all strong, volcanic, and skilled in those practical services which have made possible our 1960 KEY salute to the Greek gods of classical antiquity.

Dear

Cindy

you are the sweetest anytime that I have met in a long time you always have a smile on your face and it is a lovely one I hope you have a lot of luck in the future you deserve all the best that life has to offer always George

Dear Cindy,

Lots of luck
on exams. If I know you, you'll probably need it.

Love ya',
Jerry Yienwood

Dear Cindy,

Lots of luck
you this past year. The best of luck to a frat
brother?
Good luck
And Kulko
